

Injury test for Blues

WYCOMBE Wanderers' Shaw and Kilburn Floodlight League match at home to Milton Keynes tonight (Tuesday) gives manager John Reardon a chance to try out his four injured players.

Back into the side will come Bob Davies who was substitute at Dagenham on Saturday while the other left back Steve Vass should also play. Tony Horseman and John Priestley are both likely to test their injuries.

The manager is hoping to give most of his squad members a run out, so John Maskell and Flackwell Heath's Richard Strong should get a game.

This will be the Blues third Floodlight League fixture having beaten Oxford City 2-1 at home and Aylesbury 3-0 away. If Wycombe's form in recent games is anything to go by, Milton Keynes could be struggling.

They are currently third from the foot of Division One North in the Southern League with only one win from 12 games.

Mr Reardon announced this week that Roger Day, the Blues' experienced midfield player, had been retained until further notice. Roger originally came for a month and had that period extended for a further four weeks. The manager said: "Roger is playing too well to let him go at the moment."

YOUTH TEAM

Wycombe's Youth team, represented by Flackwell Heath U.18's, stage another match in the Berger Paints Isthmian Youth Cup tomorrow (Wednesday) when they seek revenge against Slough Youth at Loakes Park. They lost 3-0 at Slough last week.

Graham Pearce should be back in the side fresh from scoring Ruislip Manor's goal in their 3-1 defeat against Harringey. It was Graham's second game for Manor and he also scored on his debut.

Slough and Southall are leading the field in section A and Wycombe need a series of good results to join them as the three clubs who go through to the final stages of the competition.
